October 21st & 22nd, 2010

▶ What is EKG's for Basics?

AEDs have been shown to be the most useful tool available for basic rescue in the treatment of life-threatening dysrhythmias. But what if your patient is alive? And symptomatic? This workshop will guide the EMTB through the physiology and electrophysiology of the heart while systematically looking at rhythm strips originating in the atrium, AV junction and ventricles.

The goal is to guide the EMTB in recognizing both normal and abnormal rhythms, as well as "ectopic" rhythms that one may see during care/transport of the patient. This two day conference will include information on:

Topics

- I. Basic Cardiac Physiology
- II. Cardiac Electrophysiology
- III. Electrocardiogram Basics
- IV. Sinus Rhythms
- V. Atrial Rhythms
- VI. Junctional Rhythms
- VII. Ventricular Rhythms
- VIII. Premature Rhythms
- IX. Heart Blocks
- X. Paced Rhythms.
